Ouachita Baptist University
Ouachita Baptist University is a church-related, liberal arts university whose aims are to meet the educational needs of students and to prepare them for places of leadership and service. To achieve these aims, Ouachita Baptist University seeks to combine the love of God with the love of learning.

Bernice Young Jones School of Fine Arts, Division of Music
The Division of Music at Ouachita Baptist University seeks to prepare students for careers in the fields of musical performance, music education, theory-composition, church music and musical theatre. Courses of study are established to comply with the standards of the National Association of Schools of Music, of which Ouachita Baptist University's Division of Music is a member.

In the Division of Music, emphasis is placed upon performance, not only as a means of achieving technical excellence, but also as an outlet for recreating that which is learned through research and analysis. Opportunities available to the non-music major include private music lessons, choral and instrumental ensembles and the music humanities course.

Craig V. Hamilton
Craig V. Hamilton is The Lena Goodwin Trimble Professor of Music, Director of Bands, Coordinator of Instrumental Studies and Chairman of the Music Education department at Ouachita Baptist University. Dr. Hamilton earned his Ph.D. in Music Education from the University of North Texas, Master of Music Degree in Trumpet Performance at Arkansas State University, and Bachelor of Music Education Degree from The University of Southern Mississippi. The Ouachita Bands, under Dr. Hamilton's leadership, have toured throughout the United States and Europe, and performed at State, Regional and National conferences and meetings. Dr. Hamilton is also conductor of the Hot Springs Community Band and the South Arkansas Youth Wind Ensemble.
