ICA CLASSICS is a division of the management agency International Classical Artists Ltd (ICA). The label features archive material from sources such as the BBC, WDR in Cologne and the Boston Symphony Orchestra, as well as performances from the agency's own artists recorded in prestigious venues around the world. The majority of the recordings are enjoying their first commercial release.

The ICA Classics team has been instrumental in the success of many audio and audiovisual productions over the years, including the origination of the DVD series The Art of Conducting, The Art of Piano and The Art of Violin; the archive-based DVD series Classic Archive; co-production documentaries featuring artists such as Richter, Fricsay, Mravinsky and Toscanini; the creation of the BBC Legends archive label, launched in 1998 (now comprising more than 250 CDs); and the audio series Great Conductors of the 20th Century produced for EMI Classics.
